FLOWCHART :-

Creation of a linked list by calling node class.

Singly linked lists can be traversed in only forward direction starting from the first data element. We simply print the value of the next data element by assigning the pointer of the next node to the current data element.

Perform necessary actions like removal , inserting between two nodes , inserting in beginning or end of the linked list.